

¡CINE LATINO!

Presents

A season of Mexican Film

Mon 3rd November - Amores Perros

AMORES PERROS explores the lives of disparate characters who are catapulted into unforeseen dramatic situations instigated by the seemingly inconsequential destiny of a dog named Cofi. Not for the feint-hearted. Directed by Alejandro Gonzalez Iñárritu.

Mon 10th November - A Cine Latino Special at 6.00pm

The Minister for Cultural Affairs, Mr. Ignacio Durán, (ex Director of the Mexican Film Institute) will give a talk about Mexican film, followed by 'Deep Crimson'

Directed by Arturo Ripstein, this tale is perhaps the most shocking of the short season. A disturbing tale of how love can be destructive.

Mon 17th Novemeber - Y tu Mamá también

The two 17-year-old best friends at the center of Alfonso Cuarón's wonderful "Y Tu Mama Tambien" are obsessed with sex and bursting with callow braggadocio, their machismo a cover-up for inexperience. It's summer, their girlfriends are traveling in Europe, and Tenoch (Diego Luna), the upper-middle-class son of a corrupt politician, and Julio (Gael Garcia Bernal), who comes from a more modest background, are looking for adventure. They find it in the seductive form of 28-year-old Luisa (Maribel Verdu), the wife of Tenoch's distant cousin. To the boys' amazement, she takes them up on their invitation to accompany them to a faraway beach--Boca del Cielo--whose existence they've invented.

Mon 24th November - Herod's Law

This black comedy takes satirical swipes at connivance, corruption and the self-serving attitude of Mexican politicians in a country ruled by the same party for seven decades. In a spooky irony, the government tried to ban the film. They failed and lost the election. Awaken and I always wish for death, my lips forever entangled in your hair.' Ramon Sampedro

The films are usually in Spanish with English Subtitles – in the Jackson Lecture Theatre.

All films start at 7.00pm at Lincoln Campus, Brayford Pool, Lincoln LN6 7TS.

No charge.
